Holland Construction Starting Two New Building Projects– Asolo Repertory Theatre’s Production Center and Fish Hole Mini-Golf.

SARASOTA, FL – March 24, 2010 – Holland Construction is beginning two new construction projects in Manatee County – remodeling The Robert and Beverly Koski Production Center Campus for Asolo Repertory Theatre, and constructing the new Fish Hole Adventure Golf and the Main Street Bazaar Golf and Novelty Store on Main Street in Lakewood Ranch.

Holland has already started Asolo’s renovations, with completion planned for late summer. The Robert and Beverly Koski Production Center Campus is located at 1900 Tallevast Road in Manatee County and contains approximately 45,000 total square feet of space. The architect on this project is BMK Architects, Inc. The building contains Asolo Rep’s Scenic Studio which, when completed, is expected to house production facilities, scenery, and the theatre’s vast costume and prop collection.

Holland was also selected to build the new Fish Hole Adventure Golf and Main Street Bazaar Golf and Novelty Store which will be located on Main Street in Lakewood Ranch. For the adventure golf project, Holland is constructing 18 holes of mini-golf, a pavilion, water tower building, 2 ice house buildings and a shed; these buildings are integral to the project. The property is bordered by Lake Uhein, and the architect for the project is WBRC Architects-Engineers in Lakewood Ranch. The Main Street Bazaar Golf and Novelty Store in Lakewood Ranch is a separate but related project for Jacob Spooner, owner of The Fish Hole.

Craig Campbell, Vice President for Holland Construction’s Florida office, states “Holland is pleased to have been awarded these two exciting local construction projects. Both of these projects, in very different ways, are about creating spaces that will contribute to the overall quality of life for our residents, and also that will hopefully help attract tourists to our area, which of course benefits our local economy. Holland remains very optimistic about construction activity and opportunities in the Manatee-Sarasota area.”
